

OPERATION 42

My name is Kenneth Jacobs, I have been attending CSUSB since 2010. I initially began my academic career as a Biology student, and have recently decided to also major in Philosophy. I was born and raised in Wildomar, California and in July of 2009, directly after my Elsinore High School graduation, I stepped on those terrifying yellow footprints at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

Being in the Marine Corps Reserves is an experience that has definitely assisted me in my academic career by teaching me discipline, timeliness, and self-confidence. In June of 2012, I was hired on campus as a student assistant working for the Veterans Success Center under the very talented and focused Marci Daniels. I have learned many things working for her, the most important being the need to focus our attention to the needs of CSUSB's military affiliated students. This blog is named in honor of my favorite book "Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy," where in the trilogy there is constant reference to a book with the same name as the title. This book, an encyclopedia of sorts, is the ultimate source of information for intergalactic hitchhikers. This series of entries' goal is to become like the fictional Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy, all the introductory information military affiliated students need in one place.

The first step any prospective or current student should take is visiting CSUSB's

"Military/Veterans Corner." This webpage contains a general overview of the significant processes and information for your transition to CSUSB. If you still have questions give CSUSB's Veterans Success Center a call at 909-537-5195 or look here each month for new information.

Cheers, good luck, and always take a towel.
