A. Questions to Help Determine the Employee's Specific Limitations

In order to qualify for a reasonable accommodation, an employee must have either a disability which results in an impairment that limits one or more major life activities, or a record of such impairment. Your answers to the following questions may help determine whether the employee has such an impairment or record thereof. ¹

1. Is the impairment or medical condition long-term or permanent? Yes No
2. If NOT permanent, how long will the impairment or medical condition likely last? _____

Please answer the following questions based on what limitations the employee has when his or her condition is in an active state and no mitigating measures are used. Mitigating measures include things such as medication, medical supplies, equipment, hearing aids, mobility devices, the use of assistive technology, reasonable accommodations or auxiliary aids or services, prosthetics, and learned behavioral or adaptive neurological modifications. Mitigating measures do not include ordinary eyeglasses or contact lenses.

3. Does the impairment or medical condition limit a major life activity? Yes No
4. If yes, what is the functional limitation(s)? Please do NOT provide a diagnosis.
Example: walking is limited to .5 miles at a time, limit standing to no more than 30 minutes at a time, no lifting over 10lbs. for two weeks

¹ The Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 (GINA) prohibits employers and other entities covered by GINA Title II from requesting or requiring genetic information of an individual or family member of the individual, except as specifically allowed by this law. To comply with this law, we are asking that you not provide any genetic information when responding to this request for medical information. "Genetic information" as defined by GINA, includes an individual's family medical history, the results of an individual's or family member's genetic tests, the fact that an individual or an individual's family member sought or received genetic services, and genetic information of a fetus carried by an individual or an individual's family member or an embryo lawfully held by an individual or family member receiving assistive reproductive services.
