WE DEFINE THE Future

BACHELOR OF ARTS IN MUSIC

CSUSB's BA in Music provides a broad study of music balanced with significant general studies in the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. Core music courses include music theory, history, ensemble participation, and applied study (instrumental or vocal performance, composition, or technology). General education courses balance musical study with significant exposure to many other disciplines. Additionally, the degree's free electives allow students to pursue study in areas of particular interest, including (with the permission of a music advisor) the substitution of courses from disciplines outside of music. Students are encouraged to consider completion of a minor as part of their elective study.

BACHELOR OF MUSIC

CSUSB's selective BM program prepares advanced students for careers as professional performers or music teachers. Students must meet rigorous academic and artistic standards to enter and continue in the program. BM students declare a concentration in Instrumental Performance (including strings, winds, percussion, guitar, and piano), Vocal Performance, or Pre-Certification (Music Education).

Students in the performance concentrations pursue advanced training in preparation for careers as performing artists. The concentration has a rigorous curriculum that focuses on applied study, repertoire classes, and professional development. Students hone their skills in auditioning for professional engagements, competitions, and entrance to masters and doctoral programs. Students in the Pre-Certification (Music Education) concentration pursue postbaccalaureate credentials to teach music. The pre-certification concentration puts similar focus on pre-professional activities, including substantive observations in school music settings, as well as meaningful paid or volunteer teaching.

MINORS IN MUSIC

In addition to the two baccalaureate programs, CSUSB's Department of Music offers the following three minors. Each minor requires about 20-25 units of coursework and can be declared by students majoring in any field. Coursework in the minors can also be applied to work towards the baccalaureate degrees, which means many music majors may also choose to declare a minor in a related field to their primary emphasis.

MINOR IN MUSIC: This is the most open-ended of the Music Department's minors. It is intended for students who wish to continue their secondary-school musical experiences on a collegiate level but who are not majoring in music.

MINOR IN MUSIC TECHNOLOGY: This minor is for students interested in the study of digital audio, recording technology, and electronic music. This is a minor commonly completed by students interested in supplementing work in a related major and with career goals for which knowledge of digital audio or recording would be helpful.

MINOR IN ALTERNATIVE STYLES OF MUSIC: This minor is designed to meet the needs of our students who frequently come in to the Music Department with a background in alternative styles (Jazz, Mariachi, Rock, etc.), and who are seeking to pursue studies in a field other than Western classical music.

PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS

Any student accepted for admission to CSUSB can declare music as a major and pursue the Bachelor of Arts in Music degree. No audition is required for acceptance into the BA degree program, but students must audition for advanced placement into the appropriate level of applied lessons, theory courses, and piano proficiency courses.

Entrance to the Bachelor of Music degree requires a demonstration of significant academic, performance, and intellectual achievement. Students may apply at any time for entrance to the Bachelor of Music, but freshmen students usually apply to enter the program after the completion of two semesters of CSUSB coursework. Transfers usually apply immediately before their first semester of enrollment. Acceptance to the BM program is dependent upon a performance audition, a written essay, and the completion of prerequisite courses in music theory.

CSUSB currently uses the CSU system's priority application deadline of November 30 for admission in the following Fall term. Students may apply at <https://www.csusb.edu/admissions/apply-csusb>
