This summer, ORD and CAL are working together to offer two sessions of the highly successful Productive Online Writing with Accountability (POWWA!), with Terri Patchen, Ph.D., CSUF Faculty Fellow for Scholarly and Creative Activities. Funded by the ASPIRE grant!

Designed specifically for CSU faculty, POWWA will help you write in a safe and productive space with someone who has successfully supported faculty writing across all disciplines, at all levels in journal articles, conference papers, grant proposals, novels, musical compositions, and more.

POWWA Logistics:
- Select the month in which you will write:
  - June 5 – 23 OR July 3 – 21
- Attend a one-hour Zoom logistics meeting (time TBD)
- Send your writing to Terri twice a week during your month (you do not need to send writing to anyone else or read other POWWA writers’ work – this is all about YOU)
- Meet your writing objectives by the end of your month (geez, that was easy!)

Register by May 15 – by emailing tpatchen@fullerton.edu the following:
1. Your name, department, and the focus of your writing project
2. A few words on where you want your project by the end of your month
3. Your commitment to write at least one hour a day, three days each week (once you get started, you will find it gets easier to write more)
4. Which month you will write: June or July?
5. Include your last name and POWWA in the subject line.

POWWA tends to fill quickly – if you’re not sure if POWWA is for you, check out the testimonials on the right.

Any questions? Email: tpatchen@fullerton.edu

Not sure you want to do it? Here’s what some of your colleagues said about their POWWA experience:

Go for it! It’s a great opportunity to make real progress in your writing. Terri makes this program worthwhile…. Without a doubt, I would not have accomplished as much as I have without having participated in this program.

Her encouragement, support, and feedback kept me going and helped me work through my own self-doubt as a writer/researcher…. This experience took me back to my days as a student when I always strived to be a “good student.” I think I felt like I had made a commitment to this writing program, and I wanted to follow through. The accountability really kept me on track.

It was wonderful to have Terri as the leader. She is funny, kind, and so smart: she knows when and how to gently nudge me back to writing and her feedbacks on my work are invaluable. She single-handedly helped me think through my revision.

There is no comparison. The scheduling, the need to be accountable to your own writing needs, and Terri’s support made all the difference. I would never have done any work on my manuscript, and thanks to the program I see a path forward, where before there was nothing.
