HOW DO I KNOW IF CHANGING TO CREDIT / NO CREDIT IS RIGHT FOR ME?

THINKING ABOUT MAKING THE CHANGE TO THE GRADING SCALE TO ONE OR MORE OF YOUR CLASSES?

Here are some things to consider before you consult with your academic advisor:

Credit / No Credit may be a good option if:

- You are struggling with the change to virtual learning
- You do not need the grades in the course to boost your GPA or to get into major coursework
- You have circumstances that prevent you from performing to your typical standards

Credit / No Credit may NOT be a good option if:

- Your course grade will raise your overall GPA
- You are pursuing professional certification or need grades to meet eligibility for a program, scholarship or membership to an organization
- You are doing well in your courses in this new learning modality

Additional things to consider

- Credit and No Credit grades do not impact your GPA
- You may need a grade listed on your transcript for graduate school or credential or other certification programs
- You should consult with an advisor before making any changes in case there are other impacts based on your specific circumstances
