- HB 2281, the anti-Ethnic/Raza Studies bill; and Nullification of the 14th Amendment or Birthright Citizenship.

This brief but informative presentation offers the latest update on the resistance and organizing efforts of the past several years in Arizona, and inform others throughout the country on the actions and protests.

10:30 AM: Morning Address – "Investing in Community - Investing in Education: Honoring the Social Contract"

Dr. Raul Ruiz is not a politician; he is a public servant and physician, dedicated to serving the community. The son of farmworkers, Raul grew up in Coachella and learned at an early age that the key to attaining the American Dream was hard work and a great education. In the summer of 1990, under the hot desert sun, Raul walked from business to business in the Coachella Valley asking them to invest in their community by contributing to his education. With each investment for college, he made a promise to come back home and serve the community as a physician.

After his education at Harvard, Dr. Ruiz returned to the Coachella Valley, where he utilized his education and experience to not only lead but also serve as a physician, as he had promised. As the founder and director of the Coachella Valley Healthcare Initiative, he brought together stakeholders to improve public health and healthcare access in the Coachella Valley.

Dr. Ruiz's commitment to community service and his humanitarian efforts on behalf of vulnerable populations have earned recognition throughout the Coachella Valley. His story was featured on CNN's Latino in America.

On November 6, 2012, Congressman Dr. Ruiz was elected as a member of the United States House of Representatives (California's 36th congressional district) after defeating the redistricted incumbent Representative as a first-time candidate.

Grupo Folklórico de UCLA
Focusing on Latino youth is of particular importance because the Latino population is large, growing, and relatively young, but has lower educational achievement than other groups in the nation. Addressing the educational needs of the fastest-growing community in the United States, the Latino community, is therefore vital to our local, regional, state, and national interests. Given this importance, it is imperative to continue the work of identifying and cataloguing those programs across the U.S. that show evidence of increasing the access, opportunity, and achievement gaps for Latino students. Some programs were shaped specifically to serve young Latinos, while others serve the broader populations or focus on raising student achievement in general, but have shown strong benefits for Latino young people.

Because we know many of the programs making a difference in our community concentrate their limited funds on direct service provision rather than evaluation or marketing, our defining role for the future, as leaders and influencers, is to sustain, replicate, and bring up-to-scale those actionable practices most promising, and unveil a roadmap that is hopeful, solution-oriented and forward-thinking.

This session is a continuation in a series that highlights a few such programs currently making a positive difference in the lives and educational development from early childhood through higher education. Participants will offer descriptions and practical information shown to be effective.
LATINO AMERICANS, a documentary series produced by WETA Washington, D.C.; Bosch and Company, Inc.; and Latino Public Broadcasting (LPB), will air nationwide on PBS in the Fall of 2013. The three-part, six-hour long series will narrate the story of Latino Americans from 1800 to the 21st Century, starting with the English and Spanish colonies, and following with a survey of milestones in Latino American history. The series will intersect with much that is central to the history of the United States such as multiple wars, the Great Depression and the Civil Rights Movement. LATINO AMERICANS will also go to places where standard U.S. histories do not tend to tread, driven by the human dramas of individuals’ struggles and triumphs, successes and disappointments, people whose stories tell us much about their times.

Members of the production team will discuss the many perspectives brought to the creation of the series. Their collective experience spans filmmaking around the world for news, documentaries and feature films, and individuals on the team have had their work recognized with George Foster Peabody Awards, Imagen Awards, Emmy Awards, Christopher Awards, Erik Barnouw Awards and an NCLR ALMA Outstanding Career Achievement Award.

Panelists will also share the unfolding major bilingual public engagement and education campaign, the corresponding bilingual website with user-generated digital content, social media platforms, and the development and distribution of school-based curricula.

2:10 PM: Panel - “Serving America’s Future: Increasing College Readiness"

America is facing a new national crisis: Far too many students are coming to college unprepared. The country is devoting increasing resources to remedial education, yet despite this, college graduation rates are far below what the United States requires to address workforce needs and remain globally competitive. If progress is to be made, it will come through collaborative and innovative initiatives that strengthen education across the board—from early childhood through high school and beyond.

Panelists will share a new national report on college readiness and will discuss how higher education can work with P-12 and local community partners to improve college readiness in America. Reference Material: AASCU College Readiness Report

3:20 PM: Featured Panel – C’mon, ¡Vámonos! Educational Media and the Impact of Dora the Explorer

Since its August 14, 2000, television debut on Nickelodeon, the award-winning Dora the Explorer has become one of the most-watched pre-school television shows both in the United States and around the world. Dora has proven to be a true break-through figure in a television world in which there were few Latino characters on pre-school television: a joyous, fearless, determined, bilingual Latina, who revels in high-stakes adventures in a magical realism world replete with Latino touches.

In each show, Dora overcomes myriad obstacles with her inquisitive intelligence, facility in Spanish and English, cross-cultural sensibility, and team-building skills. In the process, Dora (and her friends) engages audiences interactively in helping her solve problems, often by using Spanish. Throughout Dora role models careful observation, respectful listening, clear logic, evidence-based decision-making, and the bridge-building value of being bilingual.

With its seamless combining of entertainment and education, using a curriculum based on Howard Gardner’s multiple intelligences, the show draws on and expands the varied strengths of young viewers of all backgrounds. Dora and its sequel, Go, Diego, Go!, have become true cross-over phenomena. They have inspired Latino children, who identify with both their ethnicity and their proud bilingualism, while Dora and Diego have also been embraced by non-Latino children.

In this special panel, members of the Dora team will discuss the development of the show and explore its cultural and educational significance within the broader context of children’s television.

A 38-year-old San Antonio native, Mayor Julián Castro is the youngest mayor of a Top 50 American city. He campaigned on an explicit education agenda when he took office in May 2009 and handily won re-election in 2011 with nearly 82 percent of the vote. Throughout his tenure, Mayor Castro has focused on attracting well-paying jobs in 21st century industries, positioning San Antonio to be a leader in the New Energy Economy and raising educational attainment across the spectrum. In 2011, the Milken Institute ranked San Antonio the nation's top-performing local economy.

Mayor Castro created SA2020, a community-wide visioning effort turned nonprofit that has galvanized thousands of San Antonians around a simple, but powerful vision for San Antonio - to create a brainpower community that is the liveliest city in the nation. Education emerged as the community's top priority, with a key education goal focused on achieving significant increases in kindergarten readiness so that 95 percent of third grade students read at grade level by 2020.

Under his leadership, the city in 2010 also opened Café College, a one-stop center offering high-quality guidance on college admissions, financial aid and standardized test preparation to any student in the San Antonio area. In its first

Honorable Julián Castro

A 38-year-old San Antonio native, Mayor Julián Castro is the youngest mayor of a Top 50 American city. First elected on May 9, 2009, Mayor Castro handily won re-election in 2011 with nearly 82 percent of the vote.

Throughout his tenure, Mayor Castro has focused on attracting well-paying jobs in 21st century industries, positioning San Antonio to be a leader in the New Energy Economy and raising educational attainment across the spectrum. In 2011, the Milken Institute ranked San Antonio the nation’s top-performing local economy.

Mayor Castro created SA2020, a community-wide visioning effort turned nonprofit that has galvanized thousands of San Antonians around a simple, but powerful vision for San Antonio - to create a brainpower community that is the liveliest city in the nation.

Under his leadership, the city in 2010 opened Café College, a one-stop center offering high-quality guidance on college admissions, financial aid and standardized test preparation to any student in the San Antonio area. In its first year, Café College served more than 5,000 area students, spurring an expansion of the facility in 2011.

Mayor Castro also has brought a sense of urgency to revitalizing the city’s urban core, including the underserved East Side of San Antonio, by initiating the “Decade of Downtown” and approving a series of incentives to encourage inner city investment. These efforts have spurred plans for the construction of more than 2,400 housing units in the center city by 2014.

In March 2010, Mayor Castro joined executives from Google and Twitter in being named to the World Economic Forum’s list of Young Global Leaders. Later that year, Time magazine placed him on its “40 under 40” list of rising stars in American politics. Mayor Castro also serves on the board of directors of the National League of Cities, is a member of the Inter-American Dialogue and is an Aspen-Rodel Fellow. In addition to his community service, Mayor Castro has taught courses at The University of Texas at San Antonio, Trinity University, and St. Mary’s University.

Mayor Castro earned his undergraduate degree from Stanford University with honors and distinction in 1996 and a juris doctorate from Harvard Law School in 2000. In 2001, at the age of 26, Castro became the youngest elected city councilman at that time in San Antonio history.

He is married to Erica Lira Castro, an elementary school teacher, and they are the proud parents of Carina, born in 2009.

Mayor Castro’s brother, Joaquin, serves in the Texas House of Representatives.
