Professional Biography

Nafisa has a unique international background, and her fluency in three languages inspired her to begin an international career as a translator. However, her passion for learning and teaching languages motivated her to pursue her master's degree in TESOL at California State University, San Bernardino. Currently, she teaches lessons encompassing a range of skill-building activities in the five areas of language learning: Grammar, Reading, Writing, Listening and Speaking. As an educator, Nafisa wants to inspire her students and teach them that they can do anything that they set their mind to, whether it is learning a different language or furthering their academic careers in the United States.
