FAQ

How can families contact their student(s) during the program?

Students will have access to their personal cell phones during the program. If you have not heard from your student and you are concerned, please contact our CARE Team at (909) 537-CARE (2273) or care@csusb.edu or call Housing and Residential Education at (909) 537-4155. If you have an emergency and need to reach your student, please contact the University Police Department Dispatch at (909) 537-7777. We ask that you utilize this option only in the case of an emergency or urgent need.

Are students allowed to leave campus?

Once students arrive on campus for the first two weeks of Coyote First STEP, they are expected to remain on campus while living in the residence halls unless a student has prior approval. However, students will return home on the weekend (Thursday evening through Sunday evening). For the remaining four weeks while students commute, they are expected to attend class and any required activity.

Will students have free time?

Students will engage in essential programming most evenings during the two weeks while living on campus, but there will be plenty of opportunities for free time to engage in activities of their own choosing.

Can parents visit/drop in while students are there?

Yes. However, please discuss visits with your student ahead of time to ensure they don’t miss required programs. Please note: No guests are allowed after 10 p.m.

Are students supervised at night?

CSUSB enforces quiet hours in all residence halls and on-campus apartments from 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. Resident assistants will be assigned to each group of students and will be present in the residence halls to supervise students overnight. Other professional staff members are on-call 24 hours per day and university police officers regularly patrol the campus and the residence halls.

July 29 - September 6, 2018
CSUSB AT A GLANCE

California State University, San Bernardino is a preeminent center of intellectual and cultural activity in Inland Southern California. Opened in 1965 and set at the foothills of the beautiful San Bernardino Mountains, the university serves more than 20,000 students each year and graduates about 4,000 students annually. CSUSB reflects the dynamic diversity of the region and has the most diverse student population of any university in the Inland Empire, and it has the second highest African-American and Hispanic enrollments of all public universities in California. Eighty one percent of those who graduate are the first in their families to do so. CSUSB has seen record increases in enrollment, diversity of faculty and students, grant and contract funding, fundraising and international programs development.

CFS OVERVIEW

Coyote First STEP (CFS) is CSUSB’s response to the California State University (CSU) system Early Start Program to promote student success through a six-week supported math and college transition program. Students live on campus in university housing for the first two weeks of the program while they complete a math course and engage in activities, which are designed to promote college success. Students experience life in the residence halls, become better acquainted with the campus and make some new friends along the way. This program was designed to provide an introduction to student life at CSUSB while establishing a strong foundation for academic success. Last year, 99 percent of student participants believed the program met or exceeded their expectations!
