Dear Colleagues and CSUSB Students:

Today is November 3rd, the last day to cast your ballot in the 2020 U.S. general election. Regardless of political party or partisanship, the right to vote is the cornerstone of our democratic republic.

If you are not yet registered to vote, click here for a list of locations where you can complete the Same Day Voter Registration Process.

If you are a California registered voter, you should have received your ballot in the mail to your registered voting address. If you have not already returned your ballot, today is the last day to submit it: at your polling location, at an official designated dropbox or at your county's Registrar of Voters.

If you live in San Bernardino County, here are the polling and ballot dropbox locations:

Please remember, with unprecedented voter turnout across the country, it may take longer for ballots to be counted than usual. This is especially true in states which are not allowed to begin counting "absentee" ballots until election day. Regardless, what you have watched over the years on TV are news organizations projecting winners of various races, based on a percentage of votes counted. While these projections do lead to candidates declaring victory or acknowledging defeat, the fact that states will not officially certify their results on election night, or even the day after, is normal.

Emotions are at a high pitch this year, so it is more important than ever to cast your vote and exercise patience while everyone's vote is counted.

Sincerely, Tomás D. Morales President
